THEFT OF AUTO IS COMPLICATED

Man Arrested in Lancaster Saturday Morning Gives His Name as R. D. Early.

STORY IS FABRICATION

Ralph D. Early From Whom Machine Was Stolen, Was Still in Gettysburg Saturday Afternoon.

According to a report received here today from Lancaster, the stealing of the car of Ralph D. Early, of Middletown, New York, from a local garage early last Saturday morning, seems to be only partially cleared up. Lancaster police arrested a trio of men Saturday morning sitting in a touring car of the same make as the one stolen and bearing a New York license parked at the square of that city.

The contents of the car which the Lancaster police seized bear out the description of articles which Mr. Early declared were in the tonneau at the time it was taken. These consisted of a .22 calibre Winchester rifle, several suitcases and other articles, among them electric light bulbs, cards, several straw hats and automobile tools.

The Lancaster police noticed the trio of men in the car piled with suitcases and the other articles parked on the square during the morning and their suspicions were aroused. The men were placed under arrest, but two of them were released, after one of the three told the police that his name was R. D. Early, of Middletown, New York, brother of the man whose identification card was attached to the car. The other two, according to this man, who styled himself Early, he had picked up along the road when they asked for a lift.

This man's statement is beyond doubt a fabrication, for the Ralph D. Early from whom the car was stolen, was seen in Gettysburg as late as 4:30 Saturday afternoon. Up to that time he had received no word of the stolen machine and a short time afterward announced his intention of going back to Prosiac, New Jersey, supposedly the home of the man whom he had picked up between Harriman and Tuxedo, New York. H. M. SCHARF WILL HEAD HIGH ALUMNI

Eighty-five Present at Annual Business Meeting And Dance Saturday Evening.

Eighty-five alumni of Gettysburg High school attended the annual business meeting and dance of the association held Saturday evening at Xavier hall, West High street. The business meeting was called to order at eight o'clock by Maurice Stallsmith, president of the organization. Following the business session, dancing was indulged in until midnight.

Election of officers was the chief item of business transacted by the former students of the High school. Henry M. Scharf, class of 1921, nosed out Harold Mumper, 1917, for president by two votes. Harold Newman, 1922, was elected vice-president; Melva Heiges, 1922, secretary, and William Troxell, 1914, was unanimously elected treasurer for the ensuing year.

A plan to attract more alumni to the meetings of the association as well as give them a greater degree of sociability was proposed and adopted, whereby association members would be permitted to bring their wives and husbands to an alumni dance planned to be staged between Christmas and New Year's day. A motion was also adopted to tender the incoming class to the high school with a banquet following commencement each year.

Following impromptu talks by a number of alumni, the meeting was adjourned, followed by dancing, which started at nine o'clock and continued until midnight. Music for the dancers was furnished by the College orchestra. During the evening refreshments were served.

WIN VICTORY OVER ENEMIES WITHIN

The Rev. T. C. Hesson Admonishes Graduates of Arendtsville Vocational School.

The baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Arendtsville Vocational school was delivered Sunday evening in the Reformed Church, Arendtsville, by the the Rev. Theodore C. Hesson. Mr. Hesson was assisted in the service by the Rev. D. T. Koser, pastor of the Arendtsville Lutheran Church.

The class of ten graduates marched into the church headed by the two ministers and members of the school board and faculty, while Miss Etta Knouse played the organ prelude.

The subject on which Mr. Hesson spoke was "The Winner," basing his remarks on the narrative found in First and Second Samuel, contrasting the conduct in the battle of Elazar, whose "hand clave unto the sword," with that of Saul, who "took the sword and fell upon it."

After reminding his hearers that the winner in real life, as in school, is the one who is determined to overcome obstacles, the preacher pointed out how one becomes a winner in a better sense when the victory won is over one's self. "Some of our worst enemies are those pressing hard upon us over the battlefields of our own souls," Mr. Hesson declared.

"But you can win over these inward enemies," Mr. Hesson continued, "by believing that you have hero stuff in you. Cultivate high ideals, banish cowardice, stand on your own feet, do your work and do it now, are some of the cardinal virtues for overcoming difficulties within and without."

In closing, Mr. Hesson urged the members of the graduating class to seek to be winners in making the world better and richer. "In this you will have the help of God," Mr. Hesson assured them. "An education will benefit no one unless he has the spirit of Abraham Lincoln, who said, 'Whatever shall appear to be the will of God, that will I do.'"

Inclement weather kept many persons from attending the services; however, a fair sized audience comfortably filled the auditorium.

ADMITTED TO CITIZENSHIP

Jacob Roed Jensen, a member of the graduating class of Gettysburg College and a native of Aalborg, Denmark, was admitted to American citizenship, at a session of naturalization court held this morning. The court conducted a brief examination of the young man, asking the name of the President of the United States, who was the first President and the kind of government in this country.

The application for citizenship filed by John Alexander, a native of Lechin, Germany, was again continued, as his wife is still a resident of Germany. His petition was before the local court June 6, 1921, but was then continued for the same reason. The applicant expects to have his wife in this country shortly and then the case will again come before the court.

Following the naturalization court, a short session of criminal court was held when Paul and Claud Fissel, Byron Cease and Roy Sloat, four youths of Orrtanna were paroled for two years under the care of their parents and sentence of the court suspended. The boys were charged with entry and larceny at the McLaughlin store at Orrtanna. The costs of the prosecution were placed upon the defendants.

THREE ORDERS ATTEND SERVICES

The Rev. W. C. Robinson Delivered Sermon to Local Patriotic Organizations.

URGED TO INCLUDE JESUS

Name of Christ Proposed For Membership in Organizations. Through Him True Brotherhood is Found.

"The only place to find liberty and peace is at the cross of Jesus Christ," declared the Rev. William C. Robinson, in addressing members of the Order of Independent Americans, who with the Patriotic Order Sons of America and Sons of Veterans attended in a body, Sunday evening, in the Presbyterian church. The sermon, on this occasion, was delivered by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Robinson, who used as his theme, "Paul's One Panacea." The speaker took his text from the second chapter of Paul's first epistle to the Corinthians.

Owing to the inclemency of the evening, there was but a small attendance of the three organizations present at this service. Two large American flags within the chancel rail, gave a patriotic aspect to the decorations, which also consisted of a large bank of flowers about the altar. Patriotic hymns were used in the order of service and preceding the sermon, a solo was rendered by Hubert M. Linn.

In addressing the assembled members of the three patriotic orders of Gettysburg, the Rev. Mr. Robinson stated that, although he was not a member of any of these orders, yet "he would propose the name of Christ for membership in each organization." The speaker commended these orders upon the breadth of their views, having as they do, more than one motto for their guidance, anyone of which may be well worth the while of a good American. They all stand, he said, for love of their nation and their brethren.

"As we review the history of this country, we cannot help but see the mighty hand of God guiding and directing the people and their leaders," declared the speaker. As we look over this battlefield we see how the forces of God were enabled to overcome the strategy of men, this also was demonstrated in an even greater (Continued on Third Page)

WITHOUT AMERICA PARLEY FAILS

Radek, Russian Leader, Declares
With America Absent, Final Decision Impossible.

WANT FOREIGN CREDIT

Private Rights Are No Bar But Moscow Government Still Hopes to Reach Understanding.

Berlin, June 5.—"Genoa gave us to learn what price the capitalist states will demand for their participation in Russian reconstruction," Carl Radek, a leading member of the Soviet Executive Committee, told the New York Herald correspondent on the eve of his departure for Moscow on a special mission.

"Unless The Hague Conference is more than a meeting of experts the Conference will merely waste everybody's time," he continued, "while the experts will not have much to say. The Genoa Conference could not and The Hague Conference cannot reach a final decision if America is absent."

The Bolsheviks, he said, did not mind Premier Lloyd George's recent speech in the House of Commons, and are even expressing satisfaction that he is remaining in power. "His speech," continued Radek, "was meant for home consumption to reward the die-hards for supporting him." Then Radek explained what the Russians thought of America by saying:

Still Looks To America.

"The Soviet Government deplors but does not despair over America's absence from the Genoa Conference and her attitude toward Russia. It was not unexpected that a country where individualism is most rampant, where every bootblack still imagines that he will become a dollar magnate, should disapprove of Soviet methods. The part of Secretary Hoover's speech where he says that America does not need Russia and has no longer business interests in Russia is correct. But America's moral scruples against contact with the Soviet Government would fade away could Russia buy quantities of American goods. The scruples would not count if Russia had a dozen powerful army corps near the Pacific coast to block Japan or to make an alliance with her.

"With economic and military inducements lacking, America is not interested in Russia. But the Soviet Government has sought and still seeks to reach an understanding with the United States, hoping through America to save the lives of another million people.

"The Washington Conference did not settle the Pacific affairs. The fall of Gen. Chang Tso-Lin leaves the Manchurian door open and the Japanese will be walking in. Ignoring Russia will become difficult for the United States."

Would Pay If Given Credits.

Radek does not think that the difference in the interpretation of private property rights should form a permanent obstacle between the Soviet Government and the capitalist States. He insists that the Russians have already recognized the principle of private property, reserving merely possession of a part of large industries for Communist exploitation. "The Soviet Government's generosity relative to what indemnification the former owners will receive will depend upon the amount of credit Russia can get abroad."

Another prominent Communist present interposed: "If Morgan will endorse our checks, we shall pay everything."

VICTIM OF ODD ACCIDENT

Woman In Auto Struck By Muffler
Dropped by Car Ahead.

Cranston, R. I., June 5.—A muffler dropped by an automobile struck the rear wheels and was thrown through the windshield of a car following, striking Mrs. D. J. McMillan, Milton, Mass., on the temple and causing a fracture of the skull. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital, and while the injury is serious, her recovery is expected. Mr. McMillan, who was driving his car, was slightly injured by splinters of glass from the broken windshield.

OBREGON IGNORES TALK

Mexico City, June 5.—Notwithstanding rumors that revolutionists inside and outside the Republic are attempting to launch a movement to drive President Obregon from office, there apparently is no more perturbation either in the capital or in the various States than has been noted during the past three months.

If there are any troop movements being carried out they were not to be observed here yesterday by the people of the capital, who enjoyed their Sunday rest in the usual round of band concerts and promenades.

TO PREVENT BOOST IN COAL PRICE

Co-operation of Retail Dealers is Asked by Secretary Hoover
For That Purpose.

Washington, June 5.—Retail coal dealers of the country will be asked today by Secretary Hoover to co-operate with the Commerce Department in insuring to the public the benefits of the maximum fair prices for coal at the mines established last week with operators in more than 80 per cent of the present producing fields for the duration of the strike.

Members of the National Retail Coal Merchants' Association, headed by Homer D. Jones, of Chicago, its president, will confer with the Commerce Secretary on co-operative methods to be adopted for preventing runaway coal prices during the period of the strike.

Later in the week Mr. Hoover is to hold a conference with representatives of the wholesale coal trade for the same purpose, with a view to linking up the distributive ends of the coal industry in passing on to the consuming public the fair prices agreed upon with the producers. It is expected that some arrangement similar to the plans adopted with the operators will be worked out with the dealers, so that by means of fair price committees in different sections of the country representing various branches of the coal industry and co-operating with the Commerce Department the brakes may be applied when prices show a tendency to speed up as they did in the last fuel crisis.

Last week's production of bituminous coal was slightly smaller than that of the preceding week, according to reports compiled by the Geological Survey, the decrease being attributed to the celebration of Memorial Day in many of the non-union and open-shop mines, which are producing in spite of the general miners' strike. The total production on the basis of preliminary returns was estimated at between 4,550,000 and 4,750,000 tons. On the previous week it ran to 4,856,000 tons. Anthracite is coming out only in negligible quantities, the Survey found.

"No great change is noted in the number of men on strike," the survey said. "Production is increasing very slowly in the Connellsville region and more rapidly in Southeastern Kentucky and Tennessee. In the non-union and open shop districts of West Virginia there is a slight but perceptible increase. Consumers' stocks of both anthracite and bituminous are falling steadily, but by how much cannot be accurately stated for the rate of consumption is not known accurately."

WASH-OUT ON MAIN LINE

Western Maryland Train Crashes Into Debris Near Smithsburg.

All traffic on the Western Maryland system east of Raven Rock Bridge, near Smithsburg, was suspended from 9 o'clock Sunday night until after 5 o'clock this morning as the result of a washout and derailment at that place last night.

The heavy rains of Sunday caused much rock logs and debris to wash down from the mountain and block the west bound track near Raven Rock. An engine in charge of Bruce Martin was returning from Highfield after having pushed a Baltimore bound freight train over the mountain. Blinded by the heavy rain, the engineer is said to have been unable to see the obstruction and his engine crashed into it.

The engine was derailed and tore up considerable track. In the meantime a freight train bound for Hagerstown was brought to Raven Rock and was used in a vain effort to put the derailed engine back on the tracks. This effort proved unsuccessful and as a result track was torn up for an eighth of a mile.

Crews were put at work and some time after five o'clock this morning succeeded in putting the rails in a condition safe for use. The trains were then brought to Hagerstown. Passengers on the Baltimore train due here at 10:50 o'clock Sunday night were held up by the wreck.

A washout which rendered the passing side at Edgemont unsafe for use occurred at that place Sunday night.

OFFICIAL COUNT FINISHED

Harrisburg, June 5.—Official count of the votes of the state-wide primary on May 16 was completed at the state bureau of elections Saturday, showing Gifford Pinchot to have received 9,259 more votes than George E. Alter for the Republican nomination for governor. Owing to the return of some Socialist votes in Allegheny as scattering the nominations in that party could not be worked out, but it appeared William J. Burke had won the Socialist nomination for the Penrose term. He is already the labor candidate. The Allegheny Socialist vote will also determine whether Lillith Wilson, of Reading, will be nominee for governor as the way the vote stands Gifford Pinchot may win it.

AMERICAN MEDAL FOR FRENCH CITY

Herrick Presents First Memorial From United States Government to Any Community.

ACCEPTED BY PREMIER

In Address, Poincare Praises Highly
Work of Doughboys and Refers to Brilliant Exploits at Mhiel.

Verdun, June 5.—In the name of the American Congress and the American people, Myron T. Herrick, the American Ambassador, Sunday presented to the City of Verdun the first and only medal given by the United States government to any community in the world.

The Ambassador and Premier Poincare together visited the ground where are buried many thousands of French whose valor the medal commemorates, and both spoke under the emotion aroused by the thought of the dead and the sight of the "Red Zone," so devastated that it may never be fit for human habitation.

Mr. Herrick assured France of the deep friendship of the United States, which, though it might not prevent disagreements and misunderstandings, would dissipate and survive them.

"Verdun and valor are forever one and inseparable," said the Ambassador.

"Here blazed the spirit of France. And so this medal, which I give to this illustrious city, hallowed by the sacrifices and courage of all France, is a tribute from the whole United States to all of France."

M. Poincare recalled the thrill at the coming of the American, the joy of their victories, the sorrow over their dead, and expressed in glowing terms the gratitude of France to America.

All France Represented

Both the French Premier and the American Ambassador were greeted with enthusiasm when they arrived at the Verdun Station at noon. Thousands of citizens of Verdun and other towns and villages, from all corners of the Meuse Department, the Argonne and Nancy, lined the principal thoroughfare as the Premier and Ambassador crossed the city to the City Hall to attend the luncheon given by the municipality in their honor. Mayor Robin, who was too ill to meet M. Poincare at the depot, was carried to the banquet hall to preside over the luncheon, with M. Poincare at his right and Mr. Herrick at his left.

The War Minister, Andre Maginot, came from Nancy and joined the party. Mr. Herrick was accompanied by Col. T. Bentley Mott, military attaché; Secretary Lawrence Norton; Parnely Herrick, son of the Ambassador; Col. Francis E. Drake of the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris; Major Kipling of the American Legion and Majors Ruel W. Elton and Robert S. Cain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Crowds filled City Hall Square while the luncheon was in progress and cheered for America with such warmth and insistence that the Ambassador was forced to appear on the balcony and salute the spectators.

MOSTLY ZERO

Seattle, June 5.—The coldest place in Uncle Sam's domain has a daily mean temperature for the whole year of 1.72 degrees below zero.

The Government weather observatory at Point Barrow, the northernmost town in Alaska, has just completed its first year's records, during which time daily readings of the thermometer were taken.

But this record a low average, does not prove anything, for during three months of the year Point Barrow has a heat wave almost oppressive. The average falls below zero because for several weeks last January the weather conditions in the Arctic regions were most severe.

Although the summers are pleasant and the skies cloudless, garden seeds will not germinate and only tufts of Arctic grass and dwarf willows flourish.

FATHER AND SON SLAIN

Shot Down In Street By Alleged Manufacturing Bootlegger.

New York, June 5.—Michael Rituppo, 49, and his son, Joseph, 23, were shot and killed in the street before their home in Brooklyn Sunday by a man whose name is unknown to the police. The murderer escaped.

The police allege the gun-wielder is a manufacturing bootlegger, with a plant on Staten Island, who employed the Rituppos as two of his Brooklyn agents. Neighbors said they heard the three quarreling in the Rituppo apartment a short time before the shooting, which occurred just before the trio had left the house.

Young Rituppo was shot down first, the father receiving mortal wounds when he grappled with the assailant.

BRITISH FORCE STORMS TOWNS

Irish Retreat And Pettigoe, a
Town on Border Was Retaken
From Sinn Feiners.

London, June 5.—Infantry, cavalry, artillery and whippet tanks took part in the first offensive action of the British troops on the Ulster borderland early Sunday afternoon, when Pettigoe, which straddles the line, though a large part of the town is in Free State, was stormed and retaken from troops of the Irish Republican Army who entered on May 30.

Reports from Belfast describe the border countryside as swarming with khaki, while the British general directs operations from headquarters on a hill outside the town.

When it became evident that the British were moving in force against Pettigoe the Republicans began to withdraw, consequently there was little resistance to parties of soldiers in motors and on foot who dashed through the town shortly after noon.

Tanks Ready For Action

At noon the troops had approached to within a mile of Pettigoe without drawing the fire of the southerners, who were engaged in the evacuation of the place and of the hills which dominated the main road along the line of march of the troops. While on the Free State side there was complete silence, the greatest activity was displayed by the approaching columns with maneuvering cavalry, specials and motors and whippet tanks flying the Union Jack. The tanks were always in readiness to move to the support of the advancing columns.

The Pettigoe columns made an interrupted advance, but the smaller party of troops were held on Boa island, ready to land in case of necessity and join in the advance on the town. Howitzers were placed in position near Belleek, where troops were massed awaiting orders to go forward.

The auxiliary Pandora and numerous little armed motorcraft participated in the general movement. The Pandora convoyed across the lake a regular fleet of small boats to be used as transports.

Additional British troops reached Belfast Sunday.

WILL DEFEND TARIFF BILL

(By Associated Press)

Washington, June 5.—Republican Senate leaders have determined to explain and defend the administration tariff bill in general debate in the State, Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, announced today in opening the first of a series of addresses which is planned for the next few weeks.

The British and Italian ambassadors and accredited representatives of other foreign nations, were assailed in the Senate today by Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana.

Sensor Watson asserted that Sir Auckland Geddes in his address in California last March in which he was quoted as urging the use of British ships for carrying American commerce as one means of aiding trade between the United States and Great Britain "had gone entirely outside the bounds of propriety."

The Indiana Senator one of the administration leaders in the Senate, charged that "there was a foreign propaganda against the pending tariff bill and declared that he denied the right of any foreign government to come to this country and instruct us with reference to the policies of our government."

FERRIS WHEEL DOOMED

Relic of Paris Exposition of 1900 is Being Dismantled.

Paris, June 5.—Americans visiting Paris will no longer see the famous Ferris wheel, which, with the Eiffel tower, for 20 years has been one of the most familiar landmarks of the French capital. Modern needs have decreed that the colossal wheel, made way for a more profitable investment. Workmen are now dismantling the huge steel structure, the axle of which alone weighs 72,000 pounds and is set a distance of 164 feet from the ground.

Built in 1900, at the time of the Paris Exhibition, from plans of an American engineer whose name it bears, the gigantic wheel has afforded pleasure and amusement to hundreds of thousands of Parisians and foreign visitors, young and old.

degree during the great World War, which has but recently come to an end. Rev. Mr. Robinson described Christ as the great patriot, who lived and worked among his own people, "who knew Him not." Through Him we are able to see the real brotherhood of men. He came here from heaven and took upon Himself human form and lived a human life among His fellow men and then finally died for the sake of His brethren. "At His cross," the speaker declared, "God is to be found and we are able there to come close to Him." He urged that "we remain there for life, for as Christ died for us, so should we live for Him. A life lived with that purpose is an honor to any order."

The great hope of the world as described by the speaker lays in the answer to the question "if God allowed His Son to suffer for us, is He not able to save those for whom Christ died?" Rev. Mr. Robinson stated, in closing, that the closest relation among human beings was that of brothers, being of exactly the same blood, and it was in this way that the term brotherhood has sprung into use as describing men bound closely together in some organization. However as we all have but one father, God, we are all brothers and should love one another.

Bible Thought for Today

WENT ABOUT DOING GOOD.—And Jesus went about all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people.—Matthew 4: 23.

FIFTY YEARS IN THE MINISTRY

to teach and taught the full term. In the spring of 1866 he again returned to the Normal School, and was elected janitor, which position he held for one year and a half. This gave him considerable work, for he had to keep up fourteen fires in the Chapel and recitation rooms (no furnaces then) and keep the rooms in a presentable condition. In his way he paid for his schooling. In the fall of 1868 he was again elected to teach the Kutztown grammar school and he accepted the position and resigned the janitorship. At the end of this term he entered Palatine College in Myerstown, where he remained one year and a half. The last year he was elected to teach and while teaching he continued the study of the languages and also took lessons in theology under the Rev. George Wolf, D. D., pastor of the Reformed Church of Myerstown. During this year he also preached his first sermon at Womelsdorf, and the second at Mt. Edna.

In the fall of 1869 he entered the school of Theology at Collegeville, from which he graduated in June, 1872, fifty years ago.

While studying theology he filled many pulpits in different parts of the country. In the early spring of 1872, he was invited to fill the pulpits of Zion, or Blaine charge consisting of three congregations. It was vacant, so he was elected pastor of the field, and a call extended to him, after he was licensed, he accepted, and entered upon his pastoral duties, June 1, 1872, and served it until July 31, 1886.

He was licensed to perform the ministerial functions in May, 1872, by Philadelphia Classis, and dismissed as a licentiate to Zion's Classis, which body received him while in session in Littlestown, in May of the same year. A committee of ordination and installation was appointed, consisting of Revs. Aaron Warner, D. D., John Ault, and James Crawford, which discharged its duties June 6, 1872, just fifty years ago.

While serving this charge he also supplied the Eschol Reformed Church for several years. He resigned this supply work and organized a new congregation at Sandy Hill, midway between Blain and Ickesburg, the extreme points of the charge. The field now had four congregations. To serve them he had to travel one Lord's Day 27 miles and the next 13 miles. These trips had to be often repeated to catechize the youth, visit the sick and officiate at funerals.

In 1874, November 10th, he was united in holy matrimony to Miss Amelia J. R. Rice, of Loysville, by the Rev. Dr. George Wolf who befriended him during his school years. Christ Church Charge invited him to fill their pulpit on April 4th and 5th, 1886, and he accepted the invitation and preached on the above dates. The charge was vacant and so they elected him pastor.

They extended a call, but when he handed his resignation to the joint consistory of Zion Charge it refused to accept it, so he declined the call. In the course of a few weeks, Christ Church charge sent a committee to interview and urge upon him to accept their call. He accepted the call and preached his introductory sermon August 1, 1886.

In June, 1916, Gettysburg Classis detached St. James and St. Luke's congregations from Christ Church, and since that time he has served Christ Church alone.

During his fifty year's pastorate he has conducted 5190 divine services, baptized 2000 infants, and 75 adults, received by confirmation, certificate and re-profession of faith, 1840 members, married 535 couples, officiated at 924 funerals, raised in Christ Church Charge for benevolence, $41,908.00.

His labors were made easier when the charge elected the Rev. W. A. Kline, Litt. D., assistant pastor.

On the 3d of April, 1896, which was Good Friday, the pastor's wife took suddenly ill, and died on Easter at 12 o'clock. This sudden death was a severe shock.

To this union were born three children, a daughter, Florence E. Miller, nee Lindaman, Rice H. Lindaman, a physician, both of Littlestown, and Francis L. Lindaman, a sales manager, Wheeling, W. V.

On July 2, 1898, he was again married to Miss Mary W. S. Snyder, of near Norristown, Pa.

"Now what was the big surprise that you just mentioned you were going to give poor Mr. Fell this afternoon?" Gramont's eyes twinkled. "You remember that I thought he suspected me of being the Masquer? Well, I was going to him to propose that we enter business together."

"Oh! As bandits?"

"No, as oil promoters. I'm out of Maillard's company, or shall be out of it soon. The minute I'm out, I'll be free to go into business for myself. It occurred to me that if Jachin Fell had brains enough to run down the Midnight Masquer, he would be a mighty good business partner; because I'm poor on business detail. Also, I think Fell is to be trusted. He's very strong politically. I have found—although few people know it."

"But he's not interested in oil, is he?"

"I don't know. I take for granted that he's interested in making money. Most men are. The only way to make money in oil is to have money—and he has some! I have a little. I can put in twenty-five thousand. With an equal amount from him, we can sink a couple of wells, perhaps three. If we go broke, all right. If we find oil, we're rich."

"But, my dear Henry, if he knew you to be the Midnight Masquer, do you think he'd want to go into business with you?"

"Why not?" Gramont laughed. "If he knew that I had brains enough to pull off that stunt and keep all New Orleans up in the air—wouldn't I make a good partner? Besides, I believe I have some notion where to go after oil. I'm going to examine your land first."

"My good prince, you surely have no lack of audacity!" She broke into a peal of laughter. "Your argument about inducing Mr. Fell to go into business with you is naive."

"But, as an argument, isn't it quite sound?"

"Possibly. Since it is Lucie Ledanois and not Jachin Fell who has brought you to a confession of your crimes against society—aren't you going to propose that she go into business with you? Doesn't the argument hold good with her?"

"No. Oil is no woman's game, unless she can well afford to lose. I imagine that you cannot, Lucie."

"You're right. I can't put in any money. I'm land poor. Unless I were to sell that Bayou Terrebonne land—it's an old farm, abandoned since before father died—"

"Don't sell it!" he exclaimed, quickly. "Don't consider any dealings with it until I have looked it over, will you?"

"Since you ask it, no. If there's gas near by, there must be oil."

"Who knows?" he shrugged. "No one can predict oil."

"Then you still mean to go to Jachin Fell with your scheme?"

Gramont nodded. "Yes. See here, because he had some motive behind it, but he won't tell me what it was. I'm terribly glad that you opened one of those boxes and found the letter—if you had gone to the police it would have been perfectly dreadful."

"I never go to the police," said Jachin Fell with his dry chuckle. "You are quite satisfied that there is nothing serious in the affair, then?"

"Absolutely! He told me that he had accomplished his purpose, whatever it was, and that it's all ended. He just gave me his word that the Masquer was dead forever. Now, aren't you glad that you confided in me?"

"Very," said Jachin Fell. "Very glad, indeed!"

"Now you're laughing at me—never mind! We're going to lunch downtown, and we'll mail those boxes on the way, by parcels post. Is that all right?"

"Quite all right, my dear. Did your gown come for tonight?"

"It's to come this afternoon."

"Very well. Do not plan to wear any jewels, Lucie. I have a set to lend you for the occasion—no, not a gift, merely a loan for the sake of Comus. They are very nice pearls; a little old fashioned, because they were mounted for the Princess de Lamballe, but you will find that they fit in excellently with your gown. I'll bring them with me when I call for you."

"And I'll tender fitting thanks then."

One thing more: Henry Gramont is going to see you after luncheon, I think—on business. And I want you to be nice to him, Uncle Jachin."

"Most assuredly," said the other, dryly. "I should like to be associated in business with that young man. The firm would prosper."

Smiling, she hung up the receiver. Ten minutes later, when Gramont and Miss Ledanois entered the waiting car, Hammond saw the boxes that they carried. He stood beside the open door, paralyzed, his eyes fastened on the boxes, his mouth agape.

"To the post office, sergeant," said Gramont, then affected to observe his stupefaction. "Why, what's the matter?"

Hammond met his twinkling eyes, saw the laughter of Lucie, and swallowed hard.

"I—er—nothing at all, cap'n," he answered, hoarsely. "A—little chokin' spell, that's all. Post office? Yes, sir."

features. The two were standing a bit apart, and Hammond was fusing with one of the headlights, but Gramont suspected that the chauffeur was listening avidly. "I've just come from a talk with dad. How did it happen that you sold him that stock of yours in the company?"

Gramont smiled a little. "I happened to need the money. Why?"

"But why the devil didn't you hang on to that stock? Or if you needed money, why didn't you come to me?" exploded the other, angrily.

"Heavens!" drawled Gramont, who was quite willing to exasperate young Maillard to the limit. "You seem frightfully concerned about it! What's the big idea, anyway? I offered the stock to your father at a discount. He realized that it was a good buy, and took it. What's wrong with that?"

"Nothing wrong, if you put it that way," snapped Maillard, angrily. "But it's a confounded sly way of doing things."

EFFICIENT METHODS NEEDED

Competition Becomes Keener in Egg Production.

The Adams County poultryman who employs inefficient methods in his business will have a trying period this year, says County Agent Paul Hoffman. This claim is based on the two outstanding signs of the times in the poultry situation in the United States today, in that farmers are planning to increase the size of their flocks about 10 per cent the coming laying season, and a real effort is being made in every part of the country to establish co-operative marketing of eggs and poultry.

What significance should Pennsylvania poultrymen place on these two conditions—increased in size of flocks and increased attention to organized marketing? Increased production

"All afternoon," answered Gramont, cheerfully. He affected not to observe Maillard's air of heavy business, nor the frowning suspicion that lurked half veiled in the other's glowering

COLLEGE EASILY WON TRACK MEET

Routed Lancaster Collegians on Their Home Field by Score of 85 to 41.

College athletes completely overwhelmed Franklin and Marshall College in the dual track meet held at Lancaster on Saturday, when the locals took first in every event except the high jump in which Bender tied with Rothermel, of F. and M. The total score was Gettysburg 85, Franklin and Marshall 41.

Horace Bender starred for Gettysburg, taking three first places, besides being tied for first in a fourth event, he scored nineteen points. Frederick Reinartz took first place in the short dashes and finished next to Althouse in the 440, giving him thirteen points, for the second high individual score. Kurtz with seven points was the high individual scorer for Franklin and Marshall.

Reinartz took second place in the intercollegiate pentathlon this year and has made high scores for Muhlenberg in all of the meets they have engaged in this season. He will be graduated from that institution this month.

and who accompanied him to Gettysburg.

This man, Ralph D. Early, left Gettysburg Saturday evening for Harrisburg. This refutes the tale of the man who gave his name as Early to the Lancaster police earlier in the day. According to the report, this man is being held pending an investigation to determine whether or not he is a brother of Frank M. Early, of Middletown, New York, whose name is on the license card in the machine.

It is believed that the man being held is the one Ralph D. Early picked up in New York state and gave his name as "Norman." It is possible that he reached Lancaster about two hours after leaving Gettysburg and while enroute or by a premeditated plan fell in with the two men who were released by the Lancaster police. This man "Norman", it is said, knew Ralph D. Early's name, and gave it to the police, who after looking up the man's connection with Frank M. Early, would release him with the car.

Ralph D. Early left Middletown, New York, June 1, in search of employment. After picking up the man known as "Norman" the two continued to Prosiac, New Jersey, and from there to Philadelphia. Unable to find employment, Mr. Early decided to go to Shelbyville, Illinois, where he has relatives living.

The two arrived in Gettysburg Friday evening and after putting the automobile in a local garage for the night retired for the night at the home of E. S. Kelly, York street. Upon awaking Saturday morning, Mr. Early found Norman gone and the garage check stolen from his coat pocket. Upon applying at the garage, he found that the car had already been taken.

RABIES IN TURK CAPITAL

Natives and Foreigners Bitten By Dogs Total 66 in Two Days.

Constantinople, June 5.—An epidemic of rabies is causing consternation in Constantinople and the suburbs. Sixty-six patients have been admitted to hospitals during the past two days suffering from dog bites. Those under treatment include Ferid Bey, former Minister of War, and 16 foreigners, principally British. Eighteen patients were received from a single Turkish family.

The epidemic thus far is confined mainly to Scutari, the Asiatic suburb of Constantinople. The Allied police have put into effect stringent quarantine and preventive measures against the disease.

CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS

A birthday celebration was held on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Warren, York street, in honor of her father, N. P. Stansbury, who was 77 years of age and also her son, Alva Warren, who celebrated his seventh anniversary. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Stansbury, of Emmitsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hahn and daughters, Gladys and Phyllis, of Keysville.

It is quite possible that those who believe only half they hear may hear twice as much as the rest of us.

DOGS' EARS AS PROOF

Constables Must Produce Evidence That Canines Are Dead.

Harrisburg, June 5.—Constables who kill and dispose of unlicensed dogs under the law of 1921 hereafter must furnish the tips of their ears to the Department of Agriculture before they can be paid $2 for each dog killed. The ruling follows the presentation of a large number of claims that were of such a size that it was necessary for a careful check on the number of dogs killed.

One constable in a week filed affidavits that he had killed 400 dogs and was entitled to $800 pay from the State, which receives the revenues from all dog licenses. Another constable engaged several deputies and for an entire week conducted a regular crusade against dogs in his district. In addition to furnishing the ears of the dogs killed constables must furnish affidavits setting forth the truth of their claims.

TRANSFER SMALL PIECE LAND

York, June 5.—The transfer of the smallest piece of land recorded in York in years is involved in the building of the new store occupied by Samuel Liverant, North George street, which was entered for record Saturday. The strip of land is only seven inches wide and 74 feet long. The sum of $250 was paid by Liverant to Abe Trattler for this small section of the earth's surface or a fraction more than $35.71 cents per inch front. This is at the rate of about $429 per foot front.

CUPID FALLS DOWN ON JOB

Fails To Supply Car Riders and The Company Stops The Service.

Lewistown, Pa., June 4.—Dan Cupid's failure was responsible for the removal of the after-midnight car on the Lewistown & Reedsville Electric Railway. Some time ago 25 love-smitten young swains who were courting their ladies fair in Lewistown petitioned the company for an after-midnight service to return home.

The petition was granted with the understanding that they should patronize the car at least three times each week. But they have fallen down on their patronage and the company has ordered the car removed.

Germany's Prosperity a Delusion, Says Consul General Lang

BY KARL LANG

Charge d'Affaires, German Embassy at Washington, and Consul-General to New York.

New York, June 5.—The collapse of Germany, and consequently of other European nations, is inevitable if the United States continues to stand aside.

Financial collapse may come any time. May 31, when another reparations payment fell due, was a critical day.

Germany needs speedy and considerable reduction of reparation payment and a breathing interval of at least a number of years in which no payments are made. Germany also needs a considerable loan, in which we hope the United States will take part.

Foreigners traveling in Germany are easily led into a misconception of conditions. Factories are running and there is very little unemployment. There are even signs of luxury in the larger cities, especially in hotels, and foreigners often conclude a certain prosperity exists.

The truth is that this prosperity to a very great extent is absorbed by payment of reparations and by increased imports of foodstuffs which are necessary because of the decline of German agriculture.

Reparations paid last year were one and a half billion gold marks—the product of the work of a million men and women.

The cost of living in Germany in August, 1921, was 14 times as much as before the war. In March, 1922, it was 32 times as much.

Grain costs 53 times as much. Consumption of meat is only 40 per cent of pre-war consumption and bread 24 per cent.

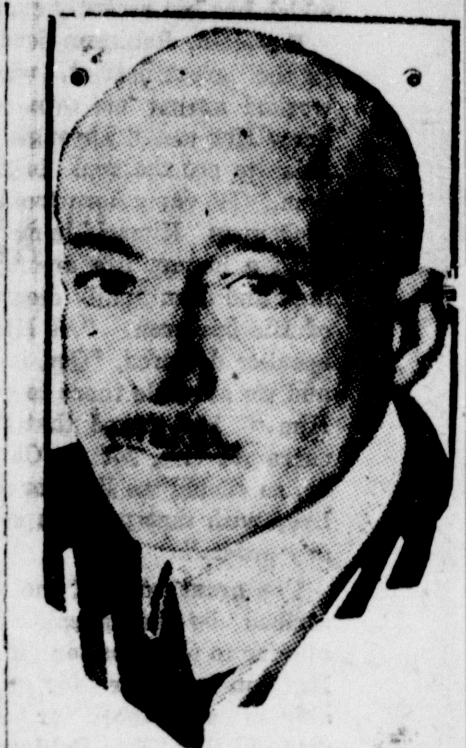

Standards of life are lower and taxation is highest of any country.

By Edward M. Thierry

New York, June 5.—Karl Lang is the German "Coal Oil Johnny."

"I shudder to think what a spendthrift I am," he says. "In two months in America, I've spent a wagon load of money."

Lang is German consul general to New York and for two months was charge d'affaires at Washington and acting ambassador until the arrival of May 13 of Ambassador Otto L. Wiedfeldt.

"It cost a million marks to bring my furniture and household goods from Germany," says Lang.

"Upkeep of the German embassy costs several million marks a month. The government has to pay the enormous amounts because of the exchange.

"It cost my wife and me 150,000 marks for steamship passage to New York. To live we spend 180,000 marks a month—enough for a couple to live on a year and a half at home.

"When we go out to lunch it costs us 1000 marks. With that salary amount my mother, in Germany, lives two months."

First Envoy Since War

Lang was the first envoy sent here by Germany since the war. He is of medium height, with a bald head, a fringe of light hair, a graying mustache and blue eyes.

"It is not so hard a job as I thought it would be," he said. "I have been treated very well. I think hostility toward Germany is disappearing. People seem to believe that our present government is trying to do the right thing."

Discounting the Count

A COUNT used to be a man in charge of a count of 500 persons to whom he was a sort of overlord. This is not true today because of altered political conditions. We still have Counts, but the Count business has changed somewhat.

Business, of all kinds, has undergone something of a revolution. It was not so many years ago that pack peddlers were the sole distributors and transporters of many of the household articles of the day. Their legs set the limits for most distribution problems in those days. Modern transportation, progressive sales methods—and advertising—have broken the shackles of time. They make a speedy job of what used to take years. Through advertising many an article has been introduced simultaneously in stores all over the country.

Advertising today is the method used by business to tell you why you should have certain goods and how to identify those goods. The advertisements you find here are a truthful catalog of needed merchandise.

Articles of all kinds and for all purposes are presented in a pleasant way through the medium of type and picture. The outstanding requirements of every member of the family are met by offers of good merchandise of proved value.

Use the advertisements for guidance and you will be a constant gainer.

Vanderlip Tells How Russia Can Regain Prosperity

(Special Cable to NEA Service)

Genoa, June 5—Frank A. Vanderlip, American financier, who has been an observer at the Genoa conference since its beginning, has given NEA Service an interview on European finance and the vital things necessary for reconstruction of Russia.

Vanderlip was asked whether Europe would obtain financial credits from America.

"No," said Vanderlip, "so long as the majority of the European states fail to balance their budgets and continue to print paper money in unlimited quantities."

"Another factor influencing America is the desire to see Europe reduce armaments and thereby save money."

To the question, "How far is America interested in Russia?" Vanderlip replied:

"America is interested in the Russian market. But not until we get a guarantee for our investments there—and the present government seems either unable or unwilling to give that."

"I can build a railroad in any part of America and get sufficient guarantees for my investment. Why go to Russia and do the same thing without the necessary protection?"

"If I send a dollar out into the world I want protection for my money, and also for my person if I want to look at the place where I have invested my money. All American investors feel that way about it. But Russia refuses to grant these elemental things."

"Three vital things are necessary for the reconstruction of Russia."

"FIRST, rebuild the Russian transportation system."

worked at both the Dillsburg and Harrisburg branches of that company. Until his illness, he was employed by the Dillsburg Hardware and Furniture company. He leaves besides his father, Joshua, the following brothers and sisters: Edward, Elmo, Kansas; Joseph, Malvern, Ia.; William P., Dillsburg; Mrs. Lewis W. Bentz, Washington township; Mrs. Henry W. Grove, Carroll township; John, The Galles, Ore., and Milton G., of Dillsburg.

MRS. MARY WILSON WHEELER

Mrs. Mary Wilson Wheeler, wife of George W. Wheeler, died at her home at 53 Breckenridge street, Sunday evening at 9:40 o'clock from a complication of diseases, aged 49 years, 2 months and 5 days. Mrs. Wheeler's maiden name was Miss Mary Katherine Wilson.

She leaves, besides her husband, one son, Earl Keyser, of Easton, one sister, Mrs. Eden Barnes, Gettysburg, and one brother, Bert Wilson, of Allentown.

She was a member of St. Paul's A. M. E. Zion Church, South Washington street and was a member of the Emergency Club of that church.

Brief funeral services from her late home at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, with further services at 2:30 o'clock in St. Paul's church, conducted by her pastor, the Rev. J. J. Robinson. Interment in the Elks' cemetery.

MAN NOT OF MUD

Princeton, N. J., June 5—Only the "graveyard" awaits those who refuse to believe in evolution, according to Professor Edwin G. Conklin, head of Princeton University's biology department, commenting upon William Jennings Bryan's attacks on evolution. In a lecture at the university, Professor Conklin said: "Anyone who refuses to believe in evolution is an ignoramus, for there is sufficient evidence to convince those who can reason."

"If these 'doubting Thomases' would get some first-hand knowledge of the bone, muscle, heart and brain of a human they would not insist that everything comes from mud," he added.

"I want to give your kid a birthday present," said the friend of the family, "and I want your advice about what it shall be." "Oh, you can make him happy by giving him anything that will make a noise," replied the long-suffering parent.

FRANK A. VANDERLIP

"SECOND, try to re-establish agricultural life."

"THIRD, recommence active oil production in the Caucasus."

"I do not believe normal conditions can be created in Russia by giving concessions. That isn't the best way. Regarding Russian agriculture, I believe the pre-war output could be doubled if Russia tried scientific methods."

"America is also interested in the Siberian market, but once more the proper guarantees for safety of investments must be had before American money can be obtained. Russia must work to obtain the confidence of American investors."

FIREMEN DEFY DOWNPOUR

York Pa., June 5—Fifteen hundred firemen and 11 bands participated Saturday in a parade in celebration of the golden jubilee of the Rescue Fire Company of this city. Although the rain fell continually, it was not permitted to mar the spectacle. Many thousands of spectators stood under umbrellas to cheer the firemen as they marched with their motor apparatus.

A generous share of applause was given M. L. Van Baman, the "Grand Old Man" of the Rescue, who has been the company's president for 48 years. Auditor General Samuel S. Lewis, president of the Vigilant Fire Company, paraded in uniform at the head of that organization. The Washington Hose Company of Conshohocken had the largest turnout of any visiting company.

ASKS $5000 COMMISSION

William A. Reist, of York, Saturday started suit against Frank H. Wogan to recover $5000, which he alleges is due him about the sale of the Hotel Penn to Charles Welsh for $165,000. Reist claims that Wogan, who owned the property, made an oral agreement to pay the commission mentioned.

KAYNEE BLOUSES

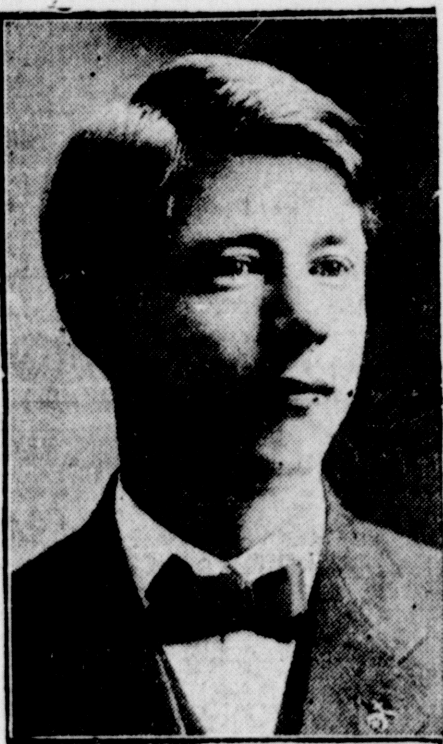

Hard play means hard mending for mothers—unless the blouses are Kaynee.

Kaynee blouses are unusually well-made—the buttons are all perfect and well sewed on, the seams are lockstitched, the button holes substantially made.

You'll like your boy's appearance in a Kaynee blouse, too. The well-set collar and trim shoulder lines give him a manly appearance. You never see a Kaynee design in a cheap blouse. The patterns are all exclusive.

Advises Buttermilk For Crows Feet, Wrinkles and Enlarged Pores

Says Old Time Recipe of Buttermilk Cream Best—A Gentle Massage with Fingers Before Retiring All That is Necessary.

The old-time application of Buttermilk and Cream to whiten and preserve the skin and remove harsh little wrinkles and ugly sallowness is grandmother's recipe and women throughout the country are again using it to ensure a beautiful complexion and snow-white hands and arms.

Buttermilk, however, is not always obtainable, but a specialist has at last perfected a method of concentrating buttermilk and combining it was a perfect cream, which you can buy in small quantities ready to use at any first-class drug store, by simply asking for "Howard's Buttermilk Cream."

There is no secret about it nor is there any doubt about the result—it's just common, ordinary buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream. If you cannot obtain locally send 10 cents (silver or stamps) for generous trial package of both Cream and Soap. Howard Bros. Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
